

Biographical Sketch of Karl Kloppmann

Adjunct Professor

B.A. – Pillsbury Baptist Bible College, 1968

M.Div. – Grace Theological Seminary, 1971 (Magna cum laude)

D.Min. – Dallas Theological Seminary, 2001

Karl writes on a regular basis for The Gospel Herald and Sunday School Times magazine and has authored the book, A Men's Ministry for the Small Church, published by Xulon Press. He has pastored four churches in Illinois, Pennsylvania and Indiana. Pastor Karl became the pastor of Brentwood Bible Church in Brentwood, MO on December 1, 2000. He currently lives in Ballwin, MO with his wife Priscilla.

Rarely does ministry begin with a needs assessment, but Karl Kloppmann has demonstrated that the best way to move men to where they need to be spiritually is to determine where they are and plan for their success. While stadium-packed events like Promise Keepers have advanced the men's movement in America, Karl Kloppmann convincingly demonstrates that the local church is the most fertile ground for growing stronger men. His research, insights and conclusions about how churches can effectively minister to men are essential for every pastor. – Dr. Woodrow Kroll about A Men's Ministry for the Small Church.
